

ABSTRACT

A spindle motor control circuit for controlling a motor; including a control circuit to control the motor during at least a low state, a pulse state and a high state, the motor braking during said low state, the control circuit receiving a flyback voltage from the motor during the pulse state and the control circuit receiving a reduced flyback voltage from the motor during the high state.

TI-31770 Page 14